FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Sheehy Mail Contractors, Inc. honored with U.S EPA 2018 SmartWay® Excellence Award for innovations with CNG fuel technology

(Waterloo, Wis., Oct. 29, 2018) – Last week, Sheehy Mail Contractors, Inc. (SMCI) was honored with a U.S Environmental Protection Agency SmartWay® Excellence Award for being an industry leader in supply chain environmental performance and energy efficiency.

“Today, EPA is honoring top-performing SmartWay Carrier Partners with this year’s 2018 SmartWay Excellence Award for their leadership in moving more goods with less fuel,” said EPA Office of Air and Radiation Assistant Administrator Bill Wehrum. “These companies inspire others in the freight sector to invest in innovative technologies and business practices that save fuel, cut costs and protect the environment.”

Since implementing the use of Compressed Natural Gas (CNG) fuel in 2012, SMCI has become one of the most widely known advocates of utilizing alternative fuels in transportation. Currently, more than 92% of SMCI’s fleet operates solely on CNG with 100% utilization on the horizon.

“This award proves Sheehy is a responsible environmental company doing more than most of our peers to operate with as little environmental impact as possible,” said Sheehy Enterprises CEO John Sheehy. “It is difficult for me to imagine that if there is technology that allows fleets to operate with less environmental impact that more do not do it.”

SMCI is just one of 40 other carriers that are being recognized by the EPA with a SmartWay® Excellence Award. Every year partner companies report their fuel mileage data annually through the program and are compared against all other carriers in the country based on their overall emissions footprint.

This will be the second year in a row that SMCI has been recognized with this award having also been a recipient in 2017. This year’s award recipients were honored at the 2018 American Trucking Associations Annual Management Conference & Exhibition in Austin, Texas.
